

Best of The Poop

Rumors Magically Dispelled!

We've heard some excellent, yet inaccurate rumors regarding our new store opening, and now would be a fantastic time to dispel them.

"When is the Moving Day?"

This is the one we hear the most. Just to clarify, except for that whole plate tectonics thing, OUR ELLIOTT ROAD STORE IS NOT MOVING ! It will stay just as cute and charming and open as it's always been.

"They're opening another store because the two owners don't get along."

Hee hee. Okay, we're probably to blame for this one. You see, we're occasionally jokesters around here. We told a few people in the shop that we were opening a new store because we were sick of looking at each other.

But as you can see from this totally unretouched photo, we're still really great friends.

"I hear that they aren't doing well on Elliott Road, so they're moving across town."

Yes, the first thing that they taught us in Business 101 (a course in which we proudly got a B) was that if your business is failing, you should expand! On the contrary, we've been incredibly fortunate that people have loved to Dog It™ from the time we opened.

The truth is that we've planned to have two Easton stores from the very beginning. We live here. We know how gnarly it is to cross the highway, especially in summer. We figure that if we're offering the best selection of products at competitive prices in Maryland's best-looking wine & spirits stores, and now we add convenience to the mix, you'd almost have to be a fool to shop elsewhere.