

Wear Your Dog Gear and Prepare for Some Major Celebrity Interaction!

So your mother and I have been telling you for years that if you dress nicely, good things happen.

Case in point: Top Dog goes to England, and inevitably ends up in a pub. But she's wearing her Dog tee, so she's prepared to let the good times roll! Then she's just sitting there enjoying a pint while waiting for her Pork and Leek Sausage du Jour, and this nattily-attired dude shows up with tassels and stuff. Says his name is "Chuck".

They hang out and have a glorious time, until Chuck starts to get a little third-wheely. Didn't anyone ever tell him that tables are for glasses, and not for asses? Anyway, everything was cool until Chuck started offering to show everyone his sword. Our Top Dogs politely (and wisely) declined, then sought the comparative safety of a nearby crowd of soccer hooligans.

However, she's got a great story. Chuck wasn't even wearing the tee, but he said that it made him feel 20 years younger!

Send us your pictures of folks wearing Dog Gear around the world, and we'll do our best to feature, highlight, embarrass, and otherwise defame you. Consider yourselves warned !
